About the artist:

The Upper Austrian youngster has been addicted to electronic music since his early youth. After experimenting with different kinds of music, he was fascinated by Techno and House music and decided to buy his own DJ equipment. Through his outstanding talent in mixing records it did not take him much time to be booked to local clubs and festivals. Due to his unmistakable style of dj-ing he magnetized the crowd and found his own place in the Austrian House- and Techno scene. After his successful start as a DJ, he became interested in producing. At the moment he is expanding his international career and producer skills with the music association 'elmart'. In October 2008, his stunning remix of Chris Ecker's 'When they say Hello' was released on 'Resourced Music'. A month later, Mike Absolom released his first vinyl single 'From Absolom to Heaven' on elmart - electronic music art.
